Traditional Handicrafts of Kagoshima Prefecture
Satsuma Tinware

Traditional beauty, in the elegant gloss of tin.
During the Edo Period, an ore vein was found in the outskirts of Kagoshima, causing the art form to flourish in the area. The combination of traditional workmanship and modern essence results in the creation of wonderful tinware products. You can find not only traditional lacquered designs, but also new types of cutting and carvings.

Mug
Tinware conducts heat well. When you have cold drink with this, it will feel like your lips have touched ice.

Tumbler

Winecup
The wooden stem gives it a Japanese feel, creating a greater array of combinations.

This stylish cup with its soft design is very feminine. It's important to remember not to put tinwares in the fridge together with your cold drink. It will naturally get cold when you fill it with cold liquid.

Lunchbox
Bamboo is a good material for lunchboxes because of its high ventilative properties and ability to retain moisture. Let's aim to live an aware, healthy, and natural-friendly life.

Circle Basket
The simplicity of being surrounded in natural materials feels good. The more you use bamboo, the more it starts to shine, so you can enjoy the variation in its appearance over time.

Everyday goods made from natural materials increases its shine over time.

Kagoshima has the widest bamboo forest in Japan. Due to its sturdiness and high ventilative properties, bamboo has been used in the daily lives of Kagoshima locals since long ago. In recent days, it has been a resurgence in popularity amongst women who prefer the "natural life".

From kitchen goods to delicately woven baskets, there are many useful and beautiful products to feast your eyes on.

Bamboo can be used in the kitchen as well!

Big Spoon
